Media Design Services, Inc. Launches Greener Living Today

Windsor CA 3/1/2009 – Media Design Services, Inc. announced today that they have launched Greener Living Today, an online magazine that will offer articles, resources, reviews, celebrity interviews and information on the constantly changing environmental concerns of our planet, along with tips for the consumer who is interested in "Greening" their lifestyle.

"Greener Living Today has been online for a few months now and viewership has been increasing at a steady level" noted Blake Webster, President of Media Design Services, Inc. "Greener Living Today has already published two celebrity interviews with Ed Begley, Jr., star of Living with Ed and Sloan Barnett, author of Green goes with Everything."

Greener Living Today will also begin profiling companies who are part of the growing Green Industry. Additionally, advertising opportunities are available through the Greener Living Network, an advertising system that is delivered from the Greener Living Today ad server to a small network of Green themed sites, all of which are published by Media Design Services, Inc.

"Green Living has gained acceptance and popularity and more people want to help make the earth a safe, eco-friendly environment for future generations to come" according to Webster. "Greener Living Today will provide ongoing, up to date information on Green trends and Green product reviews."
